Observations..

By the Editor

It is time for the law enforcement officers of the City and County to take the question of dope peddling just a little more seriously. . . . This past weekend two young girls were taken to the local hospital, after an evening spent in a night spot, and from all information that we have been able to gather, it appears that they may have been passed a muggle cigarette. . . . We understand that the doctor who took care of them at the hospital seems to think so. . . . Much has been tolerated in this county, but we do not believe that the people will ever allow dope peddling to become prevalent. . . . We have some information about certain individuals who have and who may still be peddling it. . . . and we were informed that these cigarettes were sold to teenage boys. . . . Jail would be too good a spot for anyone selling dope to youngsters. . . . We are going to keep hammering on this problem until it is solved.

While on the subject of rackets. . . . There are still a few slot machines operating in this county. . . . May as well take them out boys. . . . There aren't going to be any more slot machines operated in the County. . . . The sheriff says he is going to take them out; and if he doesn't, remember the Chancery Court is still in existence. . . . And, too, just a bit of advice to the ones against whom injunctions were had. . . . If you violate the injunction you are flouting with the jail. . . . And you may rest assured citations are going to be issued against you. . . . Better out. . . . The big boys who have been garnering in the blood money will not be able to save you from a contempt proceeding. . . .

Sure business is good, the actions of our merchants tell you that. . . . Our friend, Joe Schaff, has had to put in another checking counter in his Jitney-Jungle. . . . Two counters were not sufficient to take care of his customers as rapidly as he would like; so, in order to give better service, the third counter has been added. . . . And our progressive young friend, O. Delph, tells us that next week workmen will start on the complete renovation of his dry goods store. . . . new fixtures, a balcony and many other improvements will be put in at Mauffrays Dry Goods. . . . and a big sale is in the making for Mauffrays. Keep an eye on the Echo for the advertisement.

Talking about sales, Wilmer's Grocery and Market has a two page spread in this issue of the Echo. . . . It is a Stokely Gold-Dollar Sale. . . . Wilmer tells us that his prices are really right for this occasion.

Last week we mentioned that the grocers had to close on Wednesday afternoons; and in the list we published, we failed to include the names of Meyer's Cash Grocery and Pitalo's Grocery and Market. . . . Both of these places agreed to close. The closing of the groceries will start Wednesday November 28. . . .

While talking of expansion. . . . We cannot overlook our friend, C. O. (Buddy) Dufour, who is in the general insurance business in our neighboring little town of Waveland. . . . He has moved his office to 153 Coleman Avenue. . . . Buddy is really on the ball with his real estate and insurance business.

It has been a long while since we have had anything to say to our friend, Chance Cole, of the Picayune Item. On many occasions we have commented that there were more folks from Hancock County in Picayune on weekends, than there were Picayune people. . . . This is true; but we find that on Sunday there are more Picayune people fishing in Jordan River and its tributaries, than there are people left in Picayune. . . . Chance, honestly, you have a hard time steering your boat through the mass of Pearl River Countians. . . . It seems you folks have practically everything else; why don't you get a good fishing ground up there. . . . We are not bragging, Chance, but we caught a 3 pound 11 ounce speckle last weekend. . . .

The turkeys you buy for Thanksgiving Dinner from Scharf's Jitney-Jungle are raised in Hancock County. . . . They are the products of Bennie French's farm near Fenton. . . . Just another example of what a bit of thinking and work will do. . . .

As we go to press, news has reached us that the Pepsi Cola Bottling Company has purchased the Mission Orange Bottling Company from Lamar and Waldo Ochs. . . . according to Mr. Henry Pepsi president, the company will start operating immediately.

The Youth Center was approved as the site of the new blood center scheduled for Hancock County Tuesday, December 11, from 1:00 to 7:00 p. m. Mrs. Lucien Gex, Blood Program chairman, announced this week.

The date, previously set for November 21, has been changed to December 11 at which time citizens of Hancock County will have an opportunity to visit the local blood center when a Red Cross bloodmobile makes its first scheduled stop here. At that time, skilled personnel will employ the most modern techniques and equipment in receiving blood donations. All technical aspects of the donating process will be supervised by a qualified physician, assisted by registered nurses and technicians.

Mrs. Gex stressed the fact that donating blood is a simple, painless procedure that has no harmful after effects. All healthy men and women between 21 and 60 years of age may donate if they weigh at least 110 pounds. Also eligible are young people between 18 and 21 who are self-supporting, married, in military service, or who have obtained the written consent of their parents. A required to complete the donation process approximately 30 to 45 minutes are required.

Chairman Gex, in emphasizing the fact that this is a community program, said that blood donors will give their blood to the community, and to the men on the battlefield, not to the Red Cross. Red Cross simply affords citizens the opportunity to make these contributions through the facilities it provides.

"Before launching a blood program, the local Red Cross Chapter obtained full approval of medical hospital and health

J. H. Cassidy, Baton Rouge attorney and a member of the graduating class of 1926, was elected president of the St. Stanislaus Alumni at the annual Homecoming Day meeting Sunday, November 11.

Dr. J. Henry LaRose, 1928, New Orleans, was elected first vice-president; Bernard T. Hayden, Pass Christian, 1931, second vice-president; and Alvin Genin, Sr., 1929, Bay St. Louis, secretary-treasurer.

At the meeting of the Alumni the advisability of sectional meetings of the group was brought under discussion, along with the selection of a place to hold the annual New Orleans meeting. It was voted that the newly-elected officers would settle the problem. Short talks were given by Brother Celsus, president and Brother William, principal.

The Class of 1926, which observed its silver anniversary, had the largest attendance at the Homecoming. The group had a reunion Saturday. Over 100 graduates attended Homecoming this year, and an estimated crowd of 1500 was present to see the Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws defeat the De LaSalle Cavaliers of New Orleans 39 to 0, for their third straight win. Members of the senior class on the team acted as captains for this game.

A large parade preceded the game led by Miss Ruth Thibodeaux, Homecoming Queen, and members of her court, Misses Gene Aime, Honoree Damborino, Jo Ann Lang and Jeannine Seuzeneau.

At half-time, M. A. Phillips, Jr., president of the Sidelines Club, spoke and Walter J. Gex, Jr., retiring Alumni president, introduced the newly elected leader. Mr. Cassidy presented a bouquet of roses to Miss Thibodeaux as members of St. Joseph Academy's drill squad formed a crown. The squad formed the letters USA and SSC during the ceremonies.

Saturday night at the bonfire and pep rally, in charge of M. A. Phillips, Jr., and Teddy Stechmann, Coach Farley Day and Jerry Rooney, one of the outstanding players, gave short talks, before the De LaSalle dummy was burned.

In welcoming the graduates, merchants of Bay St. Louis decorated their business establishments in the school's colors.

UNTOLD DIVIDENDS

The slogan of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, "Extending Hospitality," is perhaps most fitting to our City and County. On many occasions we think acts of hospitality may go by unnoticed; but we never know definitely the effect of a bit of politeness and cordiality, until such time as it is told, either by word or by writing.

This past week, Mrs. Waldo Otis received a letter from Mrs. Andrew Hillery enclosing a clipping from a Boston, Massachusetts, newspaper, which was read and clipped by one of our subscribers in Atlanta, Mrs. E. S. Sullivan, with the request that it be sent to us for publication.

POLITEST TOWN

Baton Rouge, La. Towns of adoption have been chosen for various reasons: for their commercial, educational, cultural, or geographical advantages—and sometimes because of scenery; but on a bay not far from the Gulf of Mexico, there is a town that was selected by a couple because of its polite people.

One day not so long ago, the couple was driving through this placid little place, discussing the matter of a new home in the South, when suddenly the line of automobiles in front of them came to an abrupt stop. There were no traffic signals, and apparently no reason for the halt—but there was no blowing of horns or hint of impatience, an observation which was mystifying in these times of hurry and flurry.

After a rather long interval of waiting, the cars began to move. When the couple reached the spot where the lead car had paused, they saw an elderly driver meticulously righting his automobile against the curb. They smiled at each other and a decision took root in their thinking—a town whose citizens were so considerate of the other fellow must be a lovely place to live—SO BAY ST. LOUIS became their home.

R. M. T. It is with a great deal of pride that we publish this article, and we feel certain that every citizen of Bay St. Louis feels that a splendid compliment has been paid to his City. Let's continue to extend hospitality, and may the name of "politest town" continue to live with us, for you may rest assured, it will pay untold dividends.

BAY HIGH BAND PLANS

The Bay High Band ended its 1951 season of football performances last Friday evening at the Bay High-Long Beach game. Although we were rained out at one game, this season has been one which should make everyone proud of the band.

At the beginning of the season the band was on hand for the De LaSalle game. This was followed by appearances at the Perkinson, Pass Christian, and Lumberton games. The assistance of the pep squad, under the direction of Miss Hilda Behrden, was a big factor in the success of the halftime performances.

The activities of the band have not ceased with the closing of football season. We are planning to attend the Gulf Coast Band Festival to be held in Pascagoula December 1. The concert season for the band is underway and we hope to have several concerts this year. The band will also participate in several more parades, before the end of the school year, in Bay St. Louis and away.

Mrs. Waltman Lectures On Sweden

The children of Mrs. Lindsey's sixth grade geography class were given a rare treat Tuesday when Mrs. A. E. Waltman told them about "Christmas in my Grandfather's Home" as a conclusion to their studies of the Scandinavian countries.

Mrs. Waltman, an interesting conversationist was born in Lysekil, a small coastal town in Sweden, which she describes as being "somewhat like Pass Christian."

In 1912 Mrs. Waltman came to this country as a girl named Ebba Hanson. She entered L. S. U. and, at that time, was the only student from Sweden and the youngest girl in the college.

Twenty-five years ago, when she married a young graduate engineer, A. E. Waltman, the couple came to Biloxi on their honeymoon. They were so charmed with the Gulf Coast that they resolved to come back some day and make the coast their permanent home. Four years ago, when their only son, Bobby, was a high school freshman, the Waltmans made good their resolve and moved to Pass Christian; but not until they had lived in Chicago, England and Finland.

Shattuck, too, called attention to the fact that the line had held on rates, despite increased expenses. He pointed out that only by the cooperation of all members could this be continued.

T. D. Davis, executive manager of the Mississippi Rural Electric Association, state organization of the REA systems, told he assembled members that Coast Electric was one of the top three REA systems of the Southeast area. He highly complimented the management of the local system.

Mr. Davis pointed out that as the use of electricity increased in an area, so did the income and standard of living. Citing statistics, he pointed out that Coast Electric's average member now used 1800 KWH per year—this compared with 1200 KWH only three years ago. Mr. Davis called attention to the fact that Coast Electric's rates were today the same as they were in 1938, when the Association was first organized—this, in spite of increased operating costs in every department.

Directors elected to serve another year were: Hancock County, C. W. Fountain, John S. Rester and George Curet; Harrison County: Fred S. Ladner, B. F. Morris and R. P. Turan; Pearl River County: W. H. Burks, F. Randall Rester and Walter Stewart.

Hon. Robert L. Genin, Attorney for Coast Electric, introduced the present Directors and called attention to the fact that they were all rural residents, were all members of Coast Electric and that they served without pay. Mr. Genin told how the directors met at least one each month and determined the policies by which the manager and his staff operated this 1 1/2 million dollar enterprise.

But, as in all activities of the American Red Cross, the guiding principle in the National Blood Program is to fulfill a need in communities where that need is found to exist. The success of this community program can be measured only by the response of the volunteer donors.

"I therefore urge every able-bodied citizen of this community to plan now to give a pint of blood when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits Bay St. Louis December 11 from 1:00 to 7:00 p.

Hancock County Christmas Seal Sale To Be Launched November 19

The Annual Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale will be launched throughout the Nation this year Monday, November 19. This sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals is conducted to raise funds with which to fight Tuberculosis.

This year for the first time, the citizens of Hancock County will be included in this nation-wide campaign. Letters containing seals and a personal appeal for your help will be mailed to a large number of people in this county during the week of November 19. Anyone who does not receive seals through the mail may get them by writing to the Mississippi Tuberculosis Association, P. O. Box 605, Jackson, Mississippi.

It is every citizen's privilege to help in this fight against the Number One health problem of Hancock County. Your support of this campaign is badly needed. Your generous donations for the Christmas Seals will do much to lessen the dangers of this disease to your individual homes and communities. We urge each of you to purchase as many of these Seals as possible.

A Tuberculosis-Control Program is badly needed in Hancock County to find active cases of Tuberculosis and to prevent the further spread of this disease. Funds raised by your purchase of the Tuberculosis Christmas Seals will help to get such a program started.

YOUR CHRISTMAS SEALS FIGHT TB — BUY YOURS TODAY.

County Agent's Notes

Insect Control Will Increase Profits

By JAMES TOLER

Good insect control can mean the difference between profit and loss during the coming winter.

Cattle lice build up more heavily on cattle during cold weather. They cause an animal to be rough-coated, have a general run-down appearance and to lose production in milk and beef.

Control with either benzene hexachloride, lindane, toxaphene, methoxychlor or DDT. Usually one thorough treatment will be enough to control, but occasionally a second treatment is necessary. See your County Agent for control details on these and other insect pests.

Cattle Grubs will be showing up within the next two weeks in many areas. These look like pumps on the animals' backs. These grubs cut holes in the animals' backs, and, if not controlled, will feed for about 60 days on the animal.

They weaken an animal, cause approximately 15 percent reduction in milk production and cause a loss of gain in beef animals. Cattle buyers dock grubby cattle from one to two cents a pound.

CONTROL. Rub one and one-fourth percent derris dust in the holes that have been cut in the animals' backs. Sprinkle dust from a fruit jar with 10 to 12 holes punched in top and rub it in. Repeat treatment twice at 30-day intervals.

For more information on controlling cattle grubs and thus reducing the number of heel flies next year, see your county agent.

Hog-mange and hog lice cause their share of damage to hogs. They can be controlled by putting used crankcase oil in wallows or on rubbing poles, or by spraying with chlordane, benzene hexachloride or lindane.

Your local County Agent has the latest information on controlling these pests.

Green bugs can destroy an oat crop. Oats should be watched closely for green bug (plant lice) damage with the coming of cold weather. Greenbugs build up rapidly when the temperature is

HOME AGENT'S NOTES Prepare Thanksgiving Dinner Now

By MISS MADGE ALLRED

A quick look at your calendar and you'll realize it's just a week until the day of the big dinner of the year—Thanksgiving dinner.

To most of us this means roasted turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, pumpkin pie and all the fixin's. Instead of fixing these dishes in the same old way, see if you can't give them a little different "twist" this year. Put a new dress on them and give them a little modern day glamor. See how a bit of chopped pimento will add color and a touch of flavor to the stuffing for the turkey, for instance.

Your own glamor rating on Thanksgiving Day will be in the upper brackets, too, if you will get as much of the work done between now and the big day as lucky ones with a home freezer, see how many of the dishes you can prepare and freeze.

On this freezing list you can put rolls, pastry for the pie, and even the pie itself, and the turkey, chicken or goose. And you will know from experience, other foods from your menu that you can prepare, freeze, and bring out for last minute browning, heating or thawing and serving.

Even without a home freezer, don't think you have to do everything on The Day. Make good use of your refrigerator during the next week. Plan your menu and see if you can't fix all or part of one dish each day and store it in the refrigerator or freezer.

On your menu you might include:

CANDIED CRANBERRIES

For a sweet and sour dish, try this: Put 1 quart of cranberries into a saucepan, cover with 1 pint of cold water and 2½ cups sugar. Bring to boiling point and cook for one minute. Drain berries and cook syrup 30 minutes. For a bright glaze, pour syrup over cranberries and chill.

Sweetpotato Pone

3 large sweetpotatoes
2 cups sweet cream heated
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons spice
¼ cup butter
¾ cup brown sugar

Pare and grate potatoes. Add hot cream and mix well. Add remaining ingredients and beat well. Turn into greased, shallow baking pan. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees F., 1 hour, or until crusty and browned. Use the grated rind of 1 orange in addition to the spices for flavor, if desired.

If you prefer boiling and creaming your sweetpotatoes with butter, spices, milk and perhaps orange rind, why not try this: Put a spoonful of the mixture on a slice of pineapple. Top with a bit of butter and place under a medium broiler until the pineapple is hot and the sweetpotatoes lightly browned.

Place alternate sections of orange and grapefruit combined with seedless, or seeded halved grapes on a bed of crisp lettuce on salad plate. Garnish with sliced maraschino cherries. Serve with celery seed dressing.

CELERY SEED DRESSING

1½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons mustard
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon onion juice
2½ cup vinegar
2 cups salad oil
2 tablespoons celery seed
Combine sugar, mustard, salt, onion juice and ½ cup of vinegar. Then gradually add the oil alternately with the remaining vinegar and beat until a stable emulsion has been formed (until ingredients won't separate). Add the celery seed.

Barbara Burrow Given Surprise Party Monday

Miss Barbara Ann Burrow, daughter of Joe Burrow, was given a surprise party on the occasion of her seventeenth birthday, Monday, November 12, by a group of friends at her home.

Hostesses were Misses Clara Pucheu, Mary Lou Scianna, Helen Ruth Moran and Pansy Parker.

RESEARCH WILL CUT THE REPLACEMENT COST

Most railroad ties are removed from service because of mechanical damage rather than decay. In 1950, 36 million were taken out of service with a cost of $180 million to replace them. As a result of research developments undertaken by the Timber Engineering Company, in behalf of the lumber and railroad industries, to prevent checks and plate cutting, tie replacement cost will be reduced as much as 10 to 20 percent.

Skip Makes a Slip

Miss Gilbert, the teacher, was telling me how Skip Lawson almost went to sleep in her physics class.

She noticed him nodding and—since they were discussing electricity—said in a loud voice: "Now maybe MR. LAWSON will explain what electricity is." Skip started up, looked around wildly, and blurted out, "Gee! I used to know, but I forgot."

"What a loss to science!" sighs Miss Gilbert. "No one to this day knows what electricity really is, and here we have a genius who could explain it—but forgot!"

OPS NEWS

GROUPS LIAISON REPRESENTATIVE TO CONTACT CLUBS

The Jackson OPS announces that a groups liaison representative is now available for speaking engagements in Mississippi with women's groups, civic clubs and other organizations desiring facts about the price stabilization program. Miss Gertrude M. Gordon of Atlanta has been appointed OPS Regional Groups Liaison Representative and has already completed speaking tours in Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama. Miss Gordon will be available for Mississippi engagements with state organizations and civic clubs during December and January. Her addresses feature OPS policies and the purpose of the price stabilization program as it affects the consumer. Women's organizations, civic clubs, business groups, etc., desiring her services, contact the OPS District Director in Jackson, or get in touch with her at OPS, 147 Hunter street, S. W., Atlanta, Georgia, or phone Alpine 4-682.

AUTO PRICE POSTING
OPS has announced postponement until December 10 of invoicing and posting requirements under its new passenger automobile price ceiling. Ceiling Price Regulation 83. On the effective date of the regulation, retail dealers must post information with respect to the make, body style, line or series, basic price, or delivery, charge for handling or delivery, the ceiling price of the automobile and other information regarding special, extra and optional equipment charges called for in special orders to be issued by OPS.

MANUFACTURING ORDERS
In simultaneous moves, the OPS has ordered the Manufacturers and Machinery Regulations (CPR's 22 and 30) to become mandatorily effective December 19, and at the same time issued supplements to each regulation providing for optional adjustment of ceilings under the terms of the so-called Capehart Amendment to the Defense Production Act of 1950, recently passed by Congress. Under the manufactured goods orders, there may be some price rollbacks, but officials said increased prices will be most likely. All increases and reductions will be passed along to the public. Some manufacturers have told OPS officials that "they don't feel they will be able to get higher prices at this time. They will put their higher ceilings on the shelf and use them sometime in the future." OPS officials their ceiling prices for sales to consumers to reflect the higher levels of the new wholesale ceilings are set forth in two new regulations. Both the wholesale lamb regulation, CPR 92, and SR 79 to GCPR under which retailers will determine their new lamb and mutton ceilings, are effective November 13. Retailers of veal and calf meat will also use a formula set up in SR 9 to recalculate their ceiling prices on a weekly basis until OPS issues specific dollars-and-cents ceilings for the wholesale of these meats. Wholesale and retail prices of lamb and mutton and retail prices of veal are expected to average slightly higher than those prevailing under GCPR.

SPORTS TICKETS EXEMPT
Admissions to athletic events and entertainment activities when held in facilities owned or controlled by public and private schools have been exempt from price controls by OPS. Other services exempted in the same OPS action were services rendered in connection with the repair, rental and maintenance of public street gas lighting equipment, state and municipal sales tax collections to the extent that the collections are retained in accordance with the law, by sellers of commodities, and interment and cremation services in non-profit cemeteries that are exempt from Federal income taxes under the Internal Revenue Code.

IRRIGATION OF TRUCK CROPS PAYS IN TESTS

Studies at Branch Experiment Station Indicate Commercial Vegetable Producers Might Well Ensure Crops Against Drought

State College, Miss.—Research at the Truck Crops Branch Experiment Station at Crystal Springs has shown the value of irrigation in the growing of commercial vegetable crops, according to John A. Campbell, superintendent of the station.

Irrigated contender beans produced 239 bushels per acre last spring as compared to 78 bushels per acre for non-irrigated plots. The extra 161 bushels of snap beans increased the per acre income by $268 after costs of irrigation, picking, hampers, and hauling were deducted.

Sweet potatoes in irrigation test a few years ago produced eight additional tons of potatoes per acre were irrigated the equivalent of 2 inches of rainfall. The increased yield was valued at $120, with a net value of $112.50 after deducting the $7.10 which the irrigation cost.

Irrigation increased tomato yield by 55 boxes per acre with a net value of $157. Only 1 1/2 inches of water was used to obtain this additional yield.

The average annual rainfall of about 50 inches would be sufficient to produce truck crops in Mississippi if it were evenly distributed, Mr. Campbell said. However, he pointed to weather records maintained at State College to show droughts of 14 days or longer occur almost every year. In 30 of the past 41 years irrigation was needed in both May and July. For full vegetable production the need is even greater, as droughts which would damage truck crops in August, September and October have occurred 39 of the past 41 years.

"The cost of production for vegetable crops is usually higher than that of field crops," Mr. Campbell said. "Consequently, a reasonable investment in irrigation equipment, which would ensure against crop failure because of drought, should prove attractive to the progressive truck farmer."

15 OAT VARIETIES COMPARED IN TESTS AT SIX LOCATIONS

Experiment Station Conducts Extensive Tests as Basis For Recommendations As To Best Adapted Variety of Oats

State College, Miss.—Fifteen commercial varieties of oats were compared at six different locations in the state last winter and spring in Experiment Station variety tests. These varieties were evaluated for their inherent yielding capacities and for their resistance to diseases and cold.

As a result of these tests the following varieties are being recommended:

North Mississippi: Red "rust-proof" strains (Madison County Red, Nortex 107, Delta Red 88, Ferguson 925, Baylis); Victorgrain 48-93, Fulgrain, Arlington.

Central and South Mississippi: The red "rust-proof" strains, Alber and Camella (Victorgrain 48-93, Fulgrain, and Arlington, although good yielders of both forage and grain, are not recommended for this section because of danger from Victoria blight).

Mississippi Delta: Red "rust-proof" strains; Victorgrain 48-93, Fulgrain, Arlington and Alber. Delair, a very early oat, is of value where the oat crop is to be followed by soybeans, cowpeas, late corn, or summer pasture crops.

Tests were made at State College and at branch experiment stations located at Stoneville, Holly Springs, Newton, Oakley, and Poplarville (McNeil unit). Differences in yield were great, varying on the average from 92 bushels per acre down to a total loss on account of rust and cold damage. These differences were particularly emphasized by the severe winter cold at most locations and by the rust epidemics in the southern part of the state. The particularly cold-hardy varieties were Mustang and Arlington (and Coy at the Delta); Victorgrain 48-93 and some of the red "rust-proof" strains showed considerable recovery from the exceptional freeze of the past season.

Disease resistance is a primary factor which determines the suitability of an oat variety to a locality in most seasons. None of the available commercial varieties possess the combined resistance to the three greatest hazards to oats: leaf rust, Victoria blight, and cold. The most disease resistant oats may be found among newest breeding strains of the Mississippi station which are not yet ready for release.

Oat variety tests for the hill section of Mississippi were conducted under the leadership of Dr. S. S. Ivanoff of State College. Dr. D. H. Bowman conducted the Delta tests.

HARVESTING SEED BEING STUDIED IN RESEARCH PROGRAM

Best Use of Present Machines and New Machines and Methods Sought to Reduce Present Loss

State College, Miss.—How to harvest the maximum of a good and valuable seed crop already produced, is being sought in a rather extensive research program being conducted by the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station.

Altogether, during the year closed more than a hundred 2-acre plots containing white clover, crimson clover, black medic, oats, dallis grass, wild winter peas, sericea and common lespedeza, were harvested.

Under the best methods, yields ranging from 150 to over 200 pounds per acre were secured. It was found that with white clover the best time for harvest is when 60 to 75 percent of the seed crop has turned brown; the crop is best mowed and dried in the swath for 1 to 2 days, then combined. Dallis grass is similarly mowed and dried in the swath for 2 to 3 days. Crimson clover, black medic, common and sericea lespedeza are combined direct, although the harvest period for crimson clover is extended by mowing and drying in the swath before the remainder of the crop is dry enough to combine direct.

Losses in harvesting most seed crops are quite severe, according to Oby W. Easley, leader of the seed harvesting project. Thus, from an actual yield of 251 pounds of white clover seed per acre, 151 pounds were harvested; from an actual yield of 309 pounds of crimson clover, 202 pounds were harvested. About half the black medic was lost in harvesting, about one-fourth of the Dallis grass, and about one-third of the lespedeza was lost in harvesting.

Part of the losses were due to shattering before harvesting; other losses were through shattering by the mower and the combine pick-up and through the combine. These losses may be reduced in time, but to an extent are unavoidable with present processes and equipment.

Under the Mississippi seed research program, new methods and equipment are being sought to reduce harvesting losses to a minimum. Exploratory work is being done with defoliant, and work is about to begin on the artificial drying of seed. A vacuum harvester is in the first stage of development.

"Just what success we will have remains to be seen," commented W. C. Howell, head of the Agricultural Engineering Department. "But we are striking at the heart of the seed harvesting problem."

Doing what doesn't come naturally

Like most of Mississippi's producing oil wells, many of Gulf's 322 wells are pumpers. On the surface works a suction pump like that used on many water wells. At the other end of the pipe, a mile or more down, is one of Mississippi's great natural resources.

But oil doesn't just come naturally. Gulf has to go get it. And it's a mile-long trip straight down into the earth through diamond-hard rock, treacherous sand, and tremendous heat and pressure. A trip that would tire the patience of a saint and exhaust the luck of the Irish!

Gulf's bill of materials for... long as your arm. It includes Mississippi timber and clays, and the work of Mississippi men and women in the field and office. The total runs anywhere from $50,000 to $200,000—cash on the barrel head, whether you get a producer or a dry hole.

But topping the list of what it takes to drill an oil well is Gulf's faith and confidence in Mississippi and its people. You start with that, or you never start at all. That faith and confidence in Mississippi's future as a great oil and gas producing state first brought Gulf to Mississippi. It has led Gulf to drill 485 wells—135 of them dry holes.

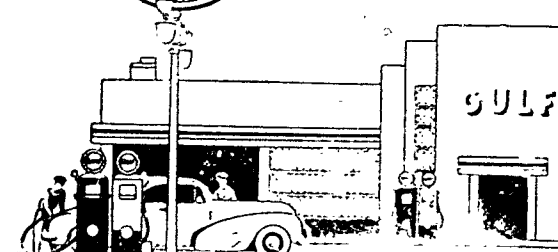

Today, Gulf carries that faith and confidence forward in the development of one of Mississippi's great natural resources for a better, more prosperous life for all.
